

MYRISTICACEAE

A photograph showing a variety of almonds. There are several red almonds, some still in their light brown, papery shells and others shelled to reveal the smooth, glossy red nut. There are also several yellow almonds, some in their shells and some shelled to reveal the smooth, glossy yellow nut. The almonds are scattered across a solid black background.

